Alpine’s Orloff Wins ‘40-Under-40’ Recognition

COMMERCE CITY, Colo. (March 17, 2009) – Alek Orloff, chief financial officer of Alpine Waste & Recycling, has been named one of the Denver Business Journal’s 40 top executives under 40 years old.

The Denver Business Journal received a record number of nominations for the ”40-Under-40” program, now in its 13th year. Judges selected winners based on business leadership, recognition of accomplishments and community involvement. Orloff is 37 years old.

“I have benefited from my association with Alpine’s dynamic and progressive management team,” said Orloff. “I consider this a team accomplishment.”

Orloff wrote Alpine’s business plan in 1999 and has been on the company’s board of directors ever since. He was appointed by Gov. Bill Ritter to serve as a commissioner on the Solid and Hazardous Waste Commission and is affiliated with the Bill Roberts School PTA and Five Points Jazz Festival.

About Alpine Waste & Recycling
Recognized as a 2008 Top Company in Colorado, Alpine Waste & Recycling is the largest privately held commercial waste and recycling collection company in the Denver area. Alpine was founded in 1999 as a single-truck operation called Alpine Disposal, the company has parlayed a customer-service focus into a compound annual revenue growth rate of greater than 50 percent. With more than 40 trucks and more than 100 employees, Alpine hauls more than 100,000 tons of waste and recycle products per year. Featuring “Altogether Recycling™, Alpine is the first company in Colorado to process recycling material competitively on a single-stream basis. For information go to www.alpinewaste.com or call 303-744-9881.