Year After Year, Alpine Waste & Recycling is Fastest Growing

Named again to Inc. 5,000; exec credits emphasis on environment

COMMERCE CITY, Colo. (Aug. 24, 2011) – For the fifth time, Alpine Waste & Recycling has been named to the Inc. 5,000 list of Fastest Growing Companies.

The announcement comes on the heels of news that Alpine was the ninth fastest-growing private company in its revenue class for the years 2008-10, as determined by the Denver Business Journal.

Alpine is Colorado's largest privately held waste-hauling and recycling company, and it is ranked No. 1,947 among the nation's fastest growing companies, according to Inc. Magazine. Last year, Alpine was ranked 1,712 by Inc. and second in a lower revenue-class by the DBJ.

While the most recent honors are determined by total revenues, Alpine has also grown in many other areas, including operations, facilities, equipment and employees. Alpine's ongoing success has resulted from strict attention to customer service and quick response to marketplace demands. This year alone, Alpine has expanded its fleet of natural gas trucks, opened a natural gas fueling station, expanded its recycling plant and begun plans for commercial composting operations.

"We received feedback from our customers that Alpine's continued emphasis on the environment has endeared us to our customers, because they share that concern and sense of stewardship," said John Griffith, president of Alpine Waste & Recycling. "It seems people like to do business with that kind of pro-environment attitude."
