Alpine Waste & Recycling, Commerce City., Co., has been named a finalist in the 2012 ColoradoBiz magazine's Top Company Award.

ColoradoBiz presents the award in 14 categories, including the service category in which Alpine was entered. According to Alpine, the company received the Top Company designation in 2008.

"When we received the Top Company Award four years ago, we interpreted it as a confirmation of our strategic direction, and it inspired us to even greater heights," says John Griffith, president of Alpine Waste. "Since then, we have embarked upon innovations designed to solidify our position as the industry leader in sustainability initiatives and services. We have expanded our recycling services, transitioned our fleet of trucks to natural gas, established composting collection and processing services, and most recently introduced automated sustainability reports to our customers."

Alpine's Automated Sustainability Report program, which the company launched in the spring of 2012, uses "smart" devices on all Alpine's collection vehicles to provide customers with precise waste-diversion data.

Winners will be announced at the 25th annual Top Company Awards celebration Sept. 12, 2012.
